CCR: Vancouver p. A-1; Amable entered the service of the Hudson's Bay Co as a middleman in 1823, by the 1st of June 1825 he was a mason at York factory. He was one of French Prairie settlers that left Fort Vancouver 27 June 1827 to establish Fort Langley. He worked as a mason or midman until 1 Sept 1833 when he retired from Hudson's Bay Co, receiving 3 months wages. In 1834 he helped rebuild the powder magazine at Fort Vancouver. From 1835-1842 HBC listed him as a Willamette River Valley settler. He maintained an account with the HBC, providing services as a mason, or furs and wheat in exchange for HBC goods. In 1837, he went to California for cattle from Fort Vancouver and went back in 1849 for three months during the gold rush. He returned to CA again in 1849 for 3 months during the gold rush. Amable settled on a claim north of Donald and became a naturalized citizen in 1851. He was permanently blinded while helping blast a mill canal around the falls at Oregon +Originally engaged as a Middleman (middle position in a canoe), he appears to have been primarily employed in the capacity of Mason.

After September 1833, Amable Arquoitte appears in the records as a trapper, selling furs to the HBC. In 1834 it is noted that he "rebuilt [the] powder magazine" at Fort Vancouver. (B.223/d/61). From 1835-1842 he is listed as one of the Wallamette (Willamette) River Valley Settlers. He maintained an account with the Hudson's Bay Company, providing his services as a Mason, or furs and wheat in exchange for HBC goods. No references to him have been traced after 1842. (B.239/g/74-81; B.223/g/3-6; B.223/d/54, 61, 77, 88, 100, 122).

Amable Arquoite was probably employed at Ft. Vancouver as he is listed as a member of the party that left Ft. Vancouver 27 June 1827 to establish Ft. Langley. (B.113/a/1).

Received 3 months wages to 1 September 1833 when he retired from the service of the Company. [Hudsons Bay Company Archives, Winnipeg

ISADORE ST. MARTIN. Among the citizens of the Columbia River valley who, by their tireless and well directed individual labors, contributed in a very definite way to the improvement and development of their respective communities, the late Isadore St. Martin was one of the most highly respected, for his career was marked by earnest purpose, sound judgment and stanch integrity in every relation of life. He was a man of sagacity and vision, did well whatever he undertook, and well merited the success which crowned his efforts. Mr. St. Martin was born near what is now Chehalis, Lewis county, Washington, about 1836, and was a son of Andrew St. Martin. His father was a native of Montreal, Canada, and came to Oregon territory about 1830 as an employee of the Hudson Bay Company. He worked for Dr. John McLoughlin at the old fort at Vancouver as a millwright. He attended the historic meeting at Champoege in 1843, accompanied by his friend, F. X. Matthieu, and witnessed the saving of Oregon to the United States by the narrow margin of two votes. He took up a donation claim of six hundred and forty acres of land near the present city of Chehalis and lived there many years, his death occurring near Portland, Oregon, in 1886. He reared a large family of children and was highly respected by his fellow citizens.

Isadore St. Martin spent his boyhood at home, assisting his father in clearing and cultivating the land until the early '60s, when he went to The Dalles, Oregon, and engaged in packing supplies to the mines at Canyon City. In this work he used a large string of pack horses, and, being a great lover of horses, maintained a splendid outfit. He lived at The Dalles until the spring of 1873, when he came to Skamania county, Washington, and took up a homestead six miles east of Stevenson. The land was covered with heavy timber, and after building a log house, he began the task of clearing the place, for which purpose he used oxen, hauling his logs to the Grant & Stone sawmill at Sprague, Washington. In the course of time he got a goodly part of the land cleared and he carried on its cultivation with success. On this land are fine medicinal hot springs, which he realized were of great value if properly utilized. To this end, he began to advertise their location and value, erecting cabins, tents and other accommodations, and met with such encouraging success that in 1898 he erected a large hotel and a number of bath houses, cleared off and beautified the surrounding grounds, and developed the place into one of the most attractive resorts in the northwest. St. Martin Springs, as the place is now widely known, has been patronized by thousands who have here found an ideal place to recuperate under pleasant and inviting environment, and the springs are patronized by people from all parts of the northwest and California, Mr. St. Martin continued to give the ranch and springs his personal attention until his death, which occurred March 10, 1910, and was deeply regretted not only by the people of his immediate community, who had found him to be a man of worthy life and dependable character, but also by many of his former guests with whom he had formed lasting friendships.

In 1864, at The Dalles, Oregon, Mr. St. Martin was united in marriage to Miss Margaret Arquette, who was born near St. Paul, Oregon, in 1843, and is a daughter of Amab and Margaret Arquette, the former born in Canada, of French descent, and the latter in Oregon, the daughter of a Chimewa Indian princess. Mrs. St. Martin is still living on the home place, at the age of eighty-five years and is greatly beloved by all who know her. To Mr. and Mrs. St.

Martin were born ten children, namely: Mrs. Virginia Gray; Eli, deceased; Frank, who died in infancy; Isadore; Amos, deceased; Mrs. Aurelia Kelly; Mrs. Maggie Ragan, of Carson, Washington; Mrs. Kate Haines, of Portland, Oregon; Mrs. Olivia Davey, of Portland, Oregon; and Lochinvar, of Carson. Mrs. Aurelia Kelly, who is now managing the hot springs for the family, was educated in the district schools, and in 1900 married E. W. Waddington; and in July, 1918, became the wife of E. P. Kelly, who was born in Pennsylvania. He was there reared and educated and in 1914 came to Washington, where he married Mrs. Waddington. Mrs. Kelly has shown herself a capable business woman and is successfully carrying on the work established by her father. She is a member of the Skamania County Pioneer Association and is deservedly popular throughout the community, having many warm and loyal friends. KELLY

ST. MARTIN

Millard, C. J., and Tolman, Mitchell, and Geraghty, JJ., concur.

Author: Steinert

STEINERT, Justice.

Plaintiff, Aurelia Kelly, brought this action against defendant, May St. Martin, to recover an alleged overpayment of profits derived from the operation of a mineral springs property owned jointly by plaintiff and defendant together with several other persons. Defendant denied the material allegations of the complaint, and, by way of counterclaim, sought recovery upon a judgment rendered in her favor against plaintiff in a former action. Upon a trial before the court, judgment was entered dismissing plaintiff's complaint, but allowing plaintiff a credit upon defendant's former judgment. Each of the parties has appealed from that portion of the judgment adverse to her. We shall hereinafter refer to plaintiff, Aurelia Kelly, as appellant, and to defendant, May St. Martin, as respondent.

Respondent has filed a motion in this court to dismiss the appeal, on the ground that the appeal was not timely taken. The judgment was entered

May 2, 1935. The notice of appeal was given May 28, 1935. On the face of the record, the appeal was taken within thirty days from the date of entry of final judgment and was, therefore, timely. Morley v. Morley, 130 Wash. 77, 226 P. 132; Rule of Practice 10, Rem.Rev.Stat. ? 308-10.

Respondent asserts that appellant purposely withheld the judgment from entry, after its rendition, in order to extend the time for taking an appeal. However, the facts upon which this assertion is based are not before us by a proper and sufficient record. The motion to dismiss is therefore denied.

This suit is one of several that various heirs at law of Isadore St. Martin, Sr., and Margaret St. Martin, husband and wife, both now deceased, have waged against each other from time to time. The nature and details of the family dissension were, to some extent, revealed in a probate proceeding which ultimately came to the court, on appeal. In re St. Martin's Estate, 175 Wash. 285, 27 P.2d 326. A perspective to the case at bar may be gained from a reference to the opinion in the probate case.

It appears in that opinion that Isadore St. Martin died, intestate, many years ago, and that subsequently, February 15, 1933, Margaret St. Martin died, also intestate, leaving surviving her, as her heirs at law, six children and nine grandchildren; the latter being the issue of three of her children, now deceased. Among the children of Margaret St. Martin were appellant, respondent, and also Isadore St. Martin, Jr., L. A. St. Martin, now deceased, Maggie St. Martin (now Ragan), and Catherine St. Martin (now Haines). For the purposes of this case, it is unnecessary to name the other heirs.

The estates left by the elder St. Martins consisted of considerable cash and securities and also real estate, of which the above-mentioned mineral springs property was a part. The management and conduct of the mineral springs property, which was operated as a hotel and health resort, have been a constant source of dispute and dissension among the heirs, as a consequence of which a number of lawsuits have, from time to time, been brought by one faction of the family against the other.

From this point, we state the case as presented by the record before us. In doing so, however, we note the fact that we are limited to the pleadings, with the exhibits attached thereto, and the findings, conclusions, and judgment of the court. There is no statement of facts in the record.

Attached to appellant's reply, and made parts thereof, are the pleadings, memorandum opinion, and judgment in cause No. 1951-C of the superior court of Skamania county. From these exhibits, the following facts appear as introductory to, and causative of, the present action: In 1922, Margaret St. Martin, mother of the parties to this action, became sick and incapacitated, and, as a consequence, the operation of the hotel and health resort was taken over by appellant and respondent. In February, 1924, a receiver of the property was appointed. After taking charge of the property, the receiver employed the appellant and her husband, E. P. Kelly, to manage and conduct the business. The receiver was discharged in June, 1924, and the Kellys, apparently with the consent of all the heirs, then took over the management and operation of the hotel and resort. Some of the heirs were employed, on salary, by the Kellys to assist in conducting the business. There seems to have been an implied understanding among the heirs that, after the deduction of the necessary and reasonable expenses of operation, the income from the property was to be distributed by the Kellys, to the various heirs in proportion to their respective interests in the estate. Pursuant to that arrangement, appellant periodically sent checks to the heirs for their proportionate shares of the profits earned.

In 1931, certain of the heirs became dissatisfied with the way in which the Kellys were handling matters. Thereupon, Isadore St. Martin, Jr., L. A. St. Martin, Maggie St. Martin (Ragan), and Catherine St. Martin (Haines) brought an action, cause No. 1951-C, supra, against the Kellys to oust them from possession and control of the mineral springs property, also for an accounting and for damages in the sum of $10,000. The Kellys appeared and defended. The respondent herein, May St. Martin, was not made a formal party to that action.

The evidence in that case is not before us, but in its memorandum opinion the court found that the action had been brought by the plaintiffs therein on behalf of all the owners of the property for an accounting and for a restoration of funds alleged to have been misappropriated by the Kellys. The court further found that, in their conduct of the business, the Kellys had overcharged salaries to the extent of $3,000. It also found that three of the plaintiffs in that action had received more dividends than they were entitled to, and that the other plaintiff had received less. The court concluded that the plaintiffs, on behalf of all the owners of the mineral springs, should have judgment against the Kellys for $3,000, to be paid into the registry of the court on or before January 9, 1933, and to be apportioned among the owners, pro rata, according to their interests in the property; and that the Kellys were entitled to have judgment against those heirs who had received overpayment of dividends. The judgment and decree followed along the lines indicated in the memorandum opinion and set out the specific amounts for which the parties should have judgment against each other. The decree did not recite, nor in any way indicate, that respondent had been overpaid, and no judgment was taken against her. No appeal was taken from the decree, and it still stands unsatisfied.

In February, 1934, appellant brought this action against respondent seeking to recover an alleged overpayment of dividends to the extent of $479.25. Respondent, in her answer, denied the overpayment and, by way of counterclaim, pleaded the former judgment in her favor and sought to recover the amount due her thereunder, namely, $166.67.

After a trial, and after rendering a series of three memorandum opinions, the court made findings to the following effect: That, during the operation of the hotel and resort by the appellant, in March, 1931, certain of the owners of the property had brought an action, cause No. 1951-C, on behalf of all the owners, against appellant and her husband for an accounting; that in that action, in which issue had been duly joined by all parties therein, an accounting in due course had been made by appellant up to October 1, 1931; that at the conclusion of that proceeding, a decree had been duly entered, providing, in effect, that respondent should have judgment against appellant in the sum of $166.67, from which decree there had been no appeal, and that the same was still unpaid; and that, subsequent to October 1, 1931, appellant had paid respondent the sum of $125.

From these findings, the court concluded that the state of accounts between appellant and respondent had been fully adjudicated in cause No. 1951-C, up to October 1, 1931, and that, therefore, appellant's action shall be dismissed; the court further concluded that appellant was entitled to have credited on respondent's former judgment against her the sum of $125, which had been paid by appellant to respondent after the accounting. Judgment was entered accordingly.

By her assignments of error, appellant makes the contention that the findings, conclusions, and judgment of the court and two of its memorandum opinions are not supported by the evidence, but are contrary thereto and to the laws of this state. As we have already stated, there is no statement of facts in the record.

In the absence of the evidence properly certified by a statement of facts or bill of exceptions, all intendments and inferences are to be taken in favor of the findings of the court, and it will be presumed that there was evidence to sustain such findings. Puget Sound Bulb Exchange v. St. Paul, etc., Insurance Co., 174 Wash. 691, 26 P.2d 84; Douglass v. Grays Harbor Fuel Co., 182 Wash. 227, 46 P.2d 733. Since the evidence in this case is not before us, we must assume that it fully supported the court's findings.

In the absence of a statement of facts or bill of exceptions, the only question remaining is whether the findings sustain the judgment. O'Brien

v. Industrial Insurance Department, 100 Wash. 674, 171 P. 1018; Seattle National Bank v. Trefethen, 168 Wash. 173, 11 P.2d 244; Simmons v. Department of Labor and Industries, 175 Wash. 290, 27 P.2d 567. The judgment herein simply dismissed the complaint and credited the sum of $125 on respondent's former judgment against the appellant. The judgment was fully supported by the findings.

Upon the cross-appeal, respondent contends that the credit should not have been allowed. We are, however, met by the same obstacle as before. There is no statement of facts before us. In the absence of such statement, we cannot go behind the findings, but must assume that they were supported by the evidence adduced. The judgment is supported by the finding of payment of $125, to be allowed as a credit on respondent's judgment.

The judgment is affirmed on both appeals. Neither party will recover costs in this court.

Hi Stephanie!

Do you happen to have in your collection any details on the descendants of Amable Arcouet? One of John McKa records to pin her down. The most promising appears to be Rose (or LaRose) who seems to be the daughter of Is likely buried in the tribal cemetery there, but the tribal records are sporadic and I have not found a death certificate not appear in a census with him, but it is assumed that she was born about 1865.

Thanks in advance for anything you might have!

Stephenie,

Thank you!

Looking at this, it looks like my best hope is going to be one of the children of John Arcouet & his wife Christina brother Frank married the widow of Alex's brother David. If I can just figure out a way to connect her -- she (Alex was Rosa in 1867. Rosa is the oldest one who shows up in the census with the family in 1870 & 1880 -- no sign This is much too indefinite to carve into stone, but worth pursuing anyway.

From the ages, these are definitely "our" John and Christine (Sanders) Arquette. It looks like Christopher has already begun getting them listed at Find a Grave. Edward Arquette was the husband of Edvige Arquette (whose DC I found last time I was in Salem), relative latecomers to the area, unrelated to our clan.

Also, I was able to locate the actual record of Amable's baptism, working from the date you had provided. Notre-Dame was (probably still is) the main cathedral at Montreal, although there were hundreds of smaller parishes in the region.

Stephenie,

Do you happen to have a file on the family of Cowlippi Teogh? He was apparently one of the Hawaiians who worked for HBC, then stayed to raise a family in the NW. Bruce Watson has listed him as Nahu (p. 714), but I'm not sure I agree with his conclusions there.

Here is a transcription (borrowed from Family Search) for the 1880 Census listing him and his sons John & Charles, which happens to include (I think) 4 of the kids of Amable Arquette Jr. &

The large database on the Arquettes lists a second wife for Amable Jr. (although he lists her first), with a daughter born to them about 1878. It is quite possible that this step-mother was the reason Lizette was not living with her father.

I would be very interested in seeing what other information you may have collected concerning the Teogh/Teio/Teo/Tio family. Also, if you have by chance located any of Amable Jr.'s family in 1870, I would love to know where -- I cannot find them anywhere!
