Two Louis Vandale [aka Vendal/Vandale/Vandalle]:

The presence of two Louis Vandale's on the prairie led to confusion for researchers tracking them through early Oregon Territory records. Louis Vandale (1796-1862) was often called "the elder" or "of Lac la Biche" to distinguish him from his younger cousin. From 1815-1821 he was with the Northwest Company in the Columbia District. In 1822 he became a milieu with the Hudsons Bay Company. After his retirement he took up a claim in the swampy southern part of the prairie on Lake Labish and became a naturalized citizen in 1851. He is often shown with a middle initial of A, with Louis Vendal "the younger" having a middle initial of B which leads to speculation that these initials were adopted as an additional means of identifying the two rather than representing actual middle names.

Louis Vendale (1819-1859), often referred to as "the younger" was an engage of the Hudson's Bay Company in 1838 as a middleman. He remained in that position until 1843/4 when he took up a claim a short distance from Woodburn. He first married Cecile McDonald, metises daughter of Chief Trader Allan McDonald. She died in 1848, leaving two living children. He then married Marie Anne Delard, daughter of Joseph Delard, aged about thirteen. She bore him six children. Vandale was stabbed to death in an argument with Tobias Machetti in 1859. His widow married Medard Foisy. After the death of Foisy she married Joseph Morrel

“Marie Anne Délard 1836-1908. Marie Anne Délard was twice widowed, having married successively Louis Vendal, Medard Foisy and Joseph Morell. She seems to have been a mother extraordinary, for at the age of twelve or thirteen she was the step mother of two of Vendal’s children by a former marriage, and in the twenty-six years that followed, she gave birth to fourteen of her own, six to Vendal and eight to Foisy. She and her third husband are buried, unmarked, in the Gervais Catholic Cemetery.” [Catholic Cemetery Records of the Pacific Northwest by Harriet Duncan Munnick, Vancouver p. A-20]

1839: “This 22 January, 1839, we priest undersigned have baptized Marie Anne aged 3 years, legitimate child of Joseph Délard, farmer of this place, and of Lisette Souchouabe. Godfather Etienne Lussier who as well as the father has not known how to sign.” [Catholic Cemetery Records of the Pacific Northwest by Harriet Duncan Munnick, Vancouver Vol I p.30 B-53]

1840: Louis B. Vandalle noted in Matthieu’s account books. Also noted in Mattheiu’s account books at that time was Louis A. Vandalle

Louis Vandelle joined the HBC in 1838 and worked as a middleman around Fort Vancouver and on the South Party until he retired to French Prairie in 1843-44. Vandalle farmed and raised a family on French Prairie. He appears to have not supported the establishment of a Provisional Government in 1843. Vandalle was stabbed to death on October 8, 1859 by Tobias Marchetti (CCR 1, A-80). He was buried in the St. Louis Cemetery. Louis Vandalle [b] had two wives and eight children. On September 14, 1840, he married Cecile McDonald (?-1848), mixed descent daughter of Chief Trader Allan McDonald. Their two children were Jean Baptist (1846-?) and Esther (c.1844-?). On June 12, 1848, a short time after Cecile’s death in 1848, Vandalle married a thirteen year old Marie Anne De’lard (c.1835-?), daughter of Joseph De’lard. Their six children were Marie (1851-52), Leandre (1853-53), Catherine (1854-?), Claire (1856-?), Helene (1858-?), and Eleanore (1860-?). After his sudden death in 1859, his widow married Medard Foisy, and still later, Joseph Morrel (CR. 80).

MURDER.—Louis B. Vandall was killed on Friday last near St. Louis—on the French Prairie—in this county, by Tobias Marchette. Both of the parties were French. Marchette is a shoemaker, and Vandall had left a pair of shoes at his shop to be repaired. Going for them on Friday, he found them untouched; a quarrel arose concerning them, which ended with the stabbing of Vandall. He died that night. We are informed that Marchette was examined before Esq. Pelly, and discharged, on Saturday; that the neighbors again arrested him, and sent a messenger to sheriff Cornoyer to come and take him into custody. Cornoyer started for him Sunday morning. Vandall was a wealthy farmer.
