DEATH OF A. PULLEN

EAST SIDE PIONEER PASSES AWAY ON COLUMBIA SLOUGH.

Andrew Pullen, a pioneer resident, living on Columbia slough, died at his home at about 9:30 Tuseday night, after an illness, which commenced Friday. Dr. Botkins, of Mount Tabor, had been attending him, but Tuesday evening his condition became critical, and Dr. C. Raffety was called out to see him, but he died before Dr. Raffety arrived at the house. He died of heart trouble. There was hardly a man living on Columbia slough that was better known than Andrew Pullen. He came among the very earliest, with Milton Sunderland, Tom Cully, the Powells, and all the early settlers in that part of the county. He raised quite a large family, and his children have married, and scattered over the state. The grand-children all together would make a large gathering. His wife survives him. He was well respected, and like most of the early setlers accumulated considerable means. The funeral will take place tomorrow, but the exact hour is not stated. He lived near where the Gravel Hill road branches off to the slough, northeast of the city.

Andrew Pullen.

Andrew Pullen, of Columbia Slough, who died Tuesday, February 16, was born in Botetourt county, Virginia, October 5, 1820. He removed with his parents to Union county, Indiana, in 1833, from thence, in company with his older brother, to Rock Island county, Illinois, in 1842. January 22, 1843, he was married to Jane Reynolds, who, with three sons and three daughters, survive him, while four children—two sons and two daughters, nine grandchildren and four great grandchildren have preceded him to the grave. In 1852, with his family, he crossed the plains and settled in the vicinity of his present home.

Mr. Pullen had been an active member of the M. E. church since 1861, until he changed his church relation by uniting with the Evangelical association in 1896. His last work of interest and devotion was the donations and active interest shown in the building of the Columbia Grove church, from the auditorium of which his remains were borne to their last resting-place. His life was one of earnest endeavors and attended with a good degree of success in the various channels of usefulness. His descendants are 10 children, 54 grandchildren, and 21 great grandchildren, constituting with the various marriage relations about 75 in all.

Funeral of Andrew Pullen.

The funeral of Andrew Pullen, who died Tuesday night, took place yesterday afternoon from his late home on Columbia slough. The services were held in the German Evangelical church, across the road from the family residence, and were conducted by Rev. H. I. Bitner. It was a remarkable service, on account of the presence of so many of the old residents of the county, who came from Portland and Mount Tabor to honor the last rites over a fellow-pioneer resident. The church was crowded to its utmost capacity. Mr. Pullen was a charter member of Mount Tabor Masonic lodge, and many of the members were present. Rev. Mr. Bitner gave a sketch of Mr. Pullen, and spoke very highly of him as a man and citizen. He was a good neighbor, a kind husband and loving parent. In the course of his remarks about the family, Rev. Mr. Bitner said there were 75 living descendants, including the children and grandchildren. Fourteen of the descendants are dead, and if all were living there would have been 89. At the close of the services in the church, the remains were buried in the Masonic grounds on Columbia slough.
